The Roycroft Shop

GREETING

---

THE ROYCROFTERS are a community of workers who make beautiful Books and Things—making them as good as they can. The paper on which Roycroft books are printed is the very best procurable, and some of the initials are illumined. ¶ As a gift you probably cannot present anything at equal cost that would be more acceptable than a hand-illumined Roycroft book. Our work is the product of the three H's: Head, Heart & Hand. In things made by hand there are no duplicates; and further, there is a quality of sentiment attached to articles thus produced that never clings to fabrics made in vast quantities by steam. If you desire, we will gladly send you "on suspicion" several volumes to choose from—a postal card from you will do it. We pay express both ways.

A Message to Garcia and Thirteen Other Things

By F R A E L B E R T U S

---

THE initial essay, A Message to Garcia, was first printed in March, 1899. Since then it has been translated into nine different languages, and has been reprinted fifteen million times. It has attained, it is believed, a wider circulation than any other piece of writing has ever before reached in the same length of time. Some people think that all of the Thirteen Other Things in this book are fairish good.

The Story of a Passion

By IRVING BACHELLER

---

THE Story of a Passion is just a tale of two old men who loved the same Violin—that's all. There is no doubt that Mr. Irving Bacheller has written some very Bad Stuff, for even the most gifted of men strike thirteen only at times—the flash of genius is essentially transient. But this story bears upon its facets the gleam of true art. Not a sentence in it can be changed or transposed. It is as near perfection as narrative can be woven on the loom of language. From the time it was first published in The Philistine, dozens of men and women prominent in Literature and Art have requested us to put it into enduring form, and in a dress worthy of its subtle and exquisite quality.

Dreams

By OLIVE SCHREINER

---

YOU may not like these allegories and fables on first reading them, but the fact remains that they are regarded as Holy Writ by many, who look to them for help and consolation. More & more these "Dreams" are being read and discussed. As a piece of book-making it is one of the most dignified and individual specimens ever produced at the Roycroft Shop. The binding by our Louis Kinder, the typography by Andrew Andrews, and the special ornaments by St. Jerome, form an ensemble of which the Roycrofters are rather proud.

P o e m s

By EDGAR ALLAN POE

---

WITH a modest foreword by Michael Monahan, wherein the writer says, among other things: "Whatever the awards of a factitious 'Hall of Immortals,' in the true pantheon of American letters no name is writ higher than his. The humble home in which he dwelt has become a veritable shrine that will ere long be cared for by the State. Each succeeding year new biographies of him are put forth, new and ever-heightened estimates of his genius are made. The artist has survived the man; the immortal success the temporary failure. And the world is making for Poe—as for so many other children of light whose fate it was to walk in darkness—its immemorial atonement."

Will o' the Mill

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON

---

ONE of the sweetest and gentlest stories ever written by that Gentle Man, who once said, "I know what pleasure is, for I have done good work." In the subtle skill of introducing a tender human quality into his lines, Stevenson stands without a rival. The long-drawn-out novel will never live—we want brevity, conciseness, and above all, heart. The writers who win hereafter will file down, just as Robert Louis did in his best work. George Saintsbury wrote of Will o' the Mill, "Stevenson never did better work than this. It seems to me one of those deathless things that leap only from inspired pens—great in its simplicity, and splendid in its unpretentiousness."
